THAT SUBURBAN "TRAGEDY".

Which Demonstrated the "Courage" of One of Uncle Sam's Boys.

A rather amusing story is told on one of the raw recruits who has recently enlisted here for service with Uncle Sam. Some of the boys were rather skeptical regarding the fellow's professed valor, and arranged a little ruse to test his courage. A lark was proposed out to the suburbs, beyond the cemetery. In company with several companions the army candidate took a stroll out there to 'have some fun." According to the pre-arranged program, when a lonely spot on the road had been reached, guns began to fire from the dark hedge, and leaden messengers to sing through the air. One or two fellows groaned and sank down apparently mortally wounded.

The soldier turned his face cityward and the whistling breezes played among his coat tails. Eye witnesses aver that he crossed the railroad at a rate of speed which woald have turned the South Side bay green with envy. Today it would be dangerous to approach him for an interview, so we tell it as told to us.

DISPENSARY VS. SALOONS.

Read What the Mayor's Docket Shows as to Drunks and Downs.

The docket in the mayor's court for the city of Greensboro shows for the month of June, the last month under the old barroom system, sixteen cases for "drunk and down." The same docket shows for the month of July, the first month under the dispensary method of selling whiskey, only seven cases for "drunk and down."

Thus it seems that our claim that the dispensary will curtail drunkenness, is to be verified from the very outset. If it should save the family of even one man a month the humiliation and disgrace of a husband and father being locked up, the dispensary would not be such a totally bad thing, would it?

TWO NOVEL THESES.

The Success of the Colored A. & M. Summer School.

The following is from the Wilmington Messenger:

The success of the colored summer school at Greensboro, the North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College, is gratifying. We heard lately from a leading gentleman of that growing town, that this school was doing good work and on proper, safe lines. At a recent examination two colored male pupils had certainly two novel theses. One had an engine of his own construction operating. The other had a handsome desk on exhibition. This is pratical and on the line of success. While training the mind they are also training the hand. Let the heart be cultivated duly, and the trinity in man is established.

Runaway Yesterday Afternoon.

The handsome chestnut-colored horses belonging to the city that are being used in the street work on lower South Elm, yesterday afternoon became frightened while hitched to one of the dirt "scoops" and went up the street at a "great speed of rapidity." Just beyond the railroad, in front of Hotel Clegg, a countryman's horseless chicken schooner stood modestly by the curbing. Toward it the wild steeds flew. The vehicle was crushed beyond recognition. The horses became entangled in the wreck and stopped without further damage.

Greatest Pig Iron Tonnage.

Pittsburg, August 9—The American Manufacturer and Iron World tomorrow will say: The largest pig iron tonnage in the history of the United States was produced during the month of July, the estimated production and the capacity being figured up to August 1. In gross tons the estimated weekly output was 269,032 tons, on August 1, as against 256,878 tons for the month previous, which shows an increase of 12,154 tons in weekly tonnage. The limit to production has not been reached, however, as a number of furnaces went out of blast last month and new ones building are soon to be fired.

St. Mary's Episcopal church was filled to overflowing last evening to witness the marriage of one of High Point's most popular young ladies, Miss Virginia Kemper Hamner to Mr. Frank James Fortier, of Hagerstown, Md. Promptly at 7:45 Prof. W. G. Kirkman, who presided at the organ, struck up Mendelssohn's beautiful and inspiring wedding march, and the bride and attendants proceeded up the aisle in the following order: The ushers, W. C. Jones and E. M. Armfield; Dr. A. E. Frazier, of this city, and Wm. B. Hill, of Danville. The bride's sister, Miss Clara Hamner, maid of honor, came next. She was attired in a becoming white dress and carried a boquet of bridal roses, lilies of the valley, etc. The bride leaning on her father's arm followed. She was dressed in white pen de soi, trimmed in applique lace and perol trimmings and looked very pretty.

The groom, accompanied by best man, his brother, were inside the chancellor in waiting, and as the bride approached they faced the officiating minister, J. C. Davis, of Concord, who, in the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the Episcopal church, pronounced them man and wife. As the party filed out of the church Prof. Kirkman played a bridal chorus from Lohengrin. The church decorations were neat and pretty. In front of the altar suspended from above were columns of evergreens with hearts constructed of flowers joined together and resting in the middle of the columns just over the aisle. Several handsome presents were received from friends. The bridal party left on the northbound train for Boston. The many friends of the happy couple here and all over the state, as well as elsewhere, will wish them happiness and long life. Congratulations.

THE KENTUCKY SITUATION.

The result of the Loss of the State to Democracy This Year.

RUMORS OF GOVERNOR RUSSELL.

Will He Leave the State at the Expiration of His Term and Settle in the East?

Special to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, August 10—The importance of keeping Kentucky in the democratic column is beginning to be realized by democratic senators and representatives. As the senate stands at present, in spite of the large republican majority, is very close on the question of free coinage, and one or two seats gained by the democracy might give them the control of the senate upon that issue. The loss of Kentucky to the democracy this year also will render the state very debatable ground next year. As stated heretofore, the Kentucky democrats are making earnest efforts to enlist in the campaign the aid of prominent democratic leaders all over the country, and they hope by their influence to keep many would-be bolters in line for the state and legislative tickets.

Kentucky people coming to Washington express the opinion that the chances in favor of the election of Goebel and the remainder of the state ticket are growing brighter. The support of Col. Stone, who was one of the principal candidates before the Louisville convention, for the ticket will be of great benefit to Goebel, and will also help to keep in line others who have been luke warm in their support of the ticket or inclined to break away

A gentleman from the state the other day stated that it is not certain now whether the opposition democrats will place Ex-Governor Brown in the field against Goebel. The appeal for harmony and a united stand against the republicans, who are preparing to profit by the dissensions in the democratic ranks in the state, coming as it does from democratic leaders of national reputation, is having its effect, and the gentleman referred to believes it will not be long before the party is practically united for the ticket.

Rumors as to the future of Governor Russell, of North Carolina, occasionally reach Washington. The latest thing in this line is one that he has sold, or will sell, his residence at Wilmington, and at the expiration of his term will locate either in Washington city, or New York city, for the purpose of establishing a law partnership. Among North Carolina people who are supposed to be in the confidence of the governor, nothing is known of his intention to take up his residence in Washington. They pay but little attention to the rumors concerning him. A close friend of the governor stated yesterday that he thought the governor would remain in North Carolina at the expiration of his term, although he may establish a law partnership in the East. Russell is said to be a good lawyer, and has received several flattering offers to enter into active partnership when he relinquishes his office in the state.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Vanderlip, is just now posing as a reformer. He has just recommended to the secretary the reduction in the salaries of a number of chiefs of divisions in the third auditor's office. The other day shortly after nine o'clock, the hour for the opening of the departments, Mr. Vanderlip had business in the third auditor's office, and when he entered he discovered a large number of the chiefs and clerks using the time of their "Uncle Samuel," in conversation and reading of morning papers, instead of being at work. Mr. Vanderlip himself is known among the clerks as a hustler, and if he dispises one thing more than another it is loafing in public offices, so he has decided to make an example of the chiefs whom he holds responsible. The chiefs and clerks claim that they did not have time to get to work, but Mr. Vanderlip takes the view that Uncle Sam's public servants should be prepared to begin work promptly after office hours begin in the morning and continue work until the office closes.

Representative Jones and family are at Orkney Springs, Shenandoah county, Virginia, for a stay of several weeks. While in that section of the State, it is said Mr. Jones will make several speeches in favor of the candidacy of Governor Tyler for the Senate.

Mr. Addison T. Smith, clerk to the committee on Territories, of the Senate, has just returned to Washington from an outing in the mountains of North Carolina. He will spend the month of August in Maryland at Arundel-on-the-Bay.

Mr. George W. Ewell, the traveling representative of the St. Louis Republic, is in Washington for a few days. He will leave the city Thursday morning for Asheville, North Carolina, where it is his intention to spend a portion of his annual vacation.

It is said that Major and Mrs. James Cecil Hooe, who have been spending some time at the Dingley cottage at Squirrel Island, Maine, will leave shortly for an extended trip to California, where they will spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray Byrum, accompanied by Miss Bessie Sloan, of Greensboro, are at the National Hotel.

NOT PULLING FOR VAN WYCK.

Gen T. F. Davidson Tell of His Trip North and What He Learned.

Gen. Theo. F. Davidson returned Saturday from a trip that included New York and Several New England points. From New York General and Mrs. Davidson went to New England to visit Mrs. Davidson's relatives, returning in the metropolis August 2, when she sailed the following day with Miss Minnie Tucker, of Raleigh, for a trip to Europe. Mrs. Davidson will attend the marriage of her sister Miss Frances Carter to Lieutenant Martin Schaffer, of the German army, which is to take place in Dresden in October.

Referring to the story sent out from Saratoga Saturday to the effect that he had participated in a meeting there in the interest of the Van Wyck presidential boom, General Davidson said to the Citizen when seen today:

"I was not near Saratoga. I had not been invited, and I could not have gone if I had been. I knew nothing of any such meeting, and I have no idea there was such a meeting or consultation held.

"My trip north was a purely personal and private one, and had no connection whatever with political matters. I did accidentally meet one or two gentlemen in New York who were prominent in political circles, and from them I learned that the democrats of New York are in high state of discipline and are looking forward with great eagerness and hope to the contest in 1900. They seem to have no doubt whatever that the democratic party will win by a very decided majority, and while they of course would prefer to have a New York man at the head of the ticket they assured me that whoever the nominee of the national democratic convention may be, he would have the united support of the party, not only of the state but of the city.

"While in New England I had some opportunity of ascertaining the sentiment of the conservative and cultivated people who have always been Republicans and who generally shape public sentiment in that section, I was somewhat surprised to find they were almost unanimously opposed to the policy of the administration with respect to the Philippines, and unless that policy is changed and that country pacified before the next presidential election I would not be surprised to see a majority of the New England electoral vote cast against the administration.

"Business seems to be very active and there is apparently great prosperity, but I was told by careful observers that there was not much confidence in its continuance. The activity seems to be confined to those products of manufactories which are protected by the tariff and the trusts and does not embrace those large classes and sections of our country which are engaged in the production of the great staples, such as corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice and so on. These find no protection under the tariff but are rather the victims of it and the trusts and do not share in this period of prosperity."—Asheville Citizen.

THE JIM CROW LAW AGAIN.

The question of the application of the Jim Crow car law to certain trains is to be tested in the courts. Two suits have recently been entered at Raleigh against the Southern Railway for not only a flagrant disregard of the law's spirit but an improper observance of its letter. The Southern seems to have a very determined contempt for the will of the people on this separate accommodation matter, and it is hoped the great system will be taught that, however great it has grown, it is not greater than the law of North Carolina.

The above paragraph was printed in this column yesterday without the comment which should have followed it, by an oversight. Those who are familiar with the policy of this paper know that it has ever tried to be fair in editorial expression to corporation and individual alike, and we again make bold to say that we take no stock in the sort of warfare that has been waged for some time against the Southern Railway by some newspapers and by individuals. And we will say just here that we do not belong to the Southern Railway, and the Southern Railway does not (at this writing) belong to us, but we take our position simply because we do not believe in condemning a corporation because it does not do what no power, human or divine, can do, i. e., please everybody.

But to the point. The writer of the above paragraph, a citizen of Greensboro, a level-headed and usually fair-minded man, is entitled to his opinion, but in this case we believe he is in a measure prejudiced or uninformed.

The "Jim Crow" law provides for separate apartments for the races. So far as we have heard, the Southern, as well as all other roads coming within the scope of the law, has complied with this provision. The manner in which they have complied with it is therefore the question under consideration. Vestibuled trains are not affected by it.

A few days ago we called attention to the fact that before the enactment of the law people of all races, sex and color, were frequently crowded into the same coach, and there was seldom any complaint. Most certainly not as much as has been made over a few crowded occasions since the law went into effect. The colored people, the only ones it was supposed would be humiliated by the change, seem to be perfectly satisfied. And in our opinion, there is no well grounded kick coming from white people who are well-informed and reasonable. But some people must kick, and it seems to have become fashionable to kick at railroads and other corporations. Perhaps this is partially due to the fact that they can be cussed out without cussing any one individual to his face.

Take a look at the facts as they appear to any man who is seeking for information. The Southern trains affected by the "Jim Crow" law can be seen several times a day in Greensboro and what do we find? The seating capacity for white people curtailed? The train from here to Raleigh and Goldsboro pulls three coaches instead of two, as formerly. The first of these is separated by a partition, cutting off seven seats for colored second-class passengers and the remainder of the coach is for second-class whites. The next coach is also separated by a partition, only six seats being set apart for first-class colored passengers, the remainder for first-class white passengers. The third coach is for the use of white passengers exclusively.

We know nothing of the suits for "flagrant disregard of the law's spirit" and the "improper observance of its letter" which our friend writes about, but the facts warrant us in doubting that such a state of affairs exist at all.

Outside of a certain newspaper's abuse and constant nagging, the railroads and the people are getting along fairly well in North Carolina. And the said newspaper lacks only a set of whiskers of being a full-grown, full-fledged populist.

They are getting up a rather novel kind of meeting to be held at Old Fort, N. C., on August 19. It is to be a big picnic and barbecue, and Mr. Republican, Mr. Democrat and Mr. Populist will be asked to leave their partisanship at home and come out to participate in the festivities, eat a good dinner and have a big time. The real purpose of the gathering is to talk about the proposed suffrage amendment to the constitution. Whether good cheer, brotherly love and general sweet harmony will be the prominent features of the meeting or whether the thing will end in a Kilkenny row, we shall wait for the result to determine. By what process of reasoning the promoters of the scheme have figured out that these three antagonistic gentlemen can be brought together to eat a friendly meal and to discuss dispassionately and unmaliciously such a weighty question as the constitutional amendment, we are at a loss to know, but shall watch for the result with much interest.

The Newbern Journal comes back at us anent our strictures on the ugly behavior of some of the eastern firemen here during the tournament, but does not touch the Telegram. On the contrary, Editor Stevens endorses our condemnation of swearing and vulgar language. The kicking on the decisions of the judges was purely a matter for the association to deal with. But when it comes to accusing the city of robbery, and such flagrant abuse of the "liberty of the city" as going about the streets cursing and blackguarding in loud voices, it is a different matter. The other matters discussed by the Journal have not been considered by the Telegram. The complaint about wearing the belt and the position in the parade, etc., we presume, is a matter for the association to consider. Perhaps it will do so, along with other matters which more vitally concern the future respectability and the very life of the firemen's association.

Filipino independence has been recognized by Uncle Sam, and he's preparing to send 50,000 men against the insurgents in the fall.

STORIES OF INGERSOLL.

Some That Are Told About the Famous Lecturer.

Among the many anecdotes related about the late Robert G. Ingersoll the following will be read with interest:

According to Colonel Ingersoll's account of the beginning of his agnosticism, it was due to the speech of a minister before a Sunday school. Dives and Lazarus was the subject, and the minister described the rich man as still suffering fiery tortures and in vain begging Abraham for a drop of water. "I got up and went out," said Colonel Ingersoll, "knowing in my boyish heart that that was a lie." When however, his father learned of his having left the meeting there was trouble for Robert. The trouble took place in the barn, and the instrument thereof was a strap in the hands of the Rev. Mr. Ingersoll, after which there was prayer for the guidance of the erring.

A man who was a fellow passenger of Colonel at time of the occurrence tells how that famous agnostic entertained a lot of Methodist preachers on a railroad train in Illinois on one occasion. The colonel was in a very social mood and had been spinning yarns to the narrator of this story when the train was boarded at Vandalia by a number of the reverend brethren who had been attending some denominational gathering. Immediately an acquaintance was scraped. Colonel Ingersoll, without revealing his identity, soon had the entire party hanging about him enjoying his flow of wit. Men laughed till they cried who looked as though they had not cracked a smile for twenty years. At Marshall the party left with many expressions of regret. They all told us who they were, where they had been, etc., but Colonel Ingersoll was not equally confidential. Finally one good old brother asked him his name. Ingersoll handed him his card. He looked at it and let it drop as though it burned his fingers. His jaw fell and he looked as though he had seen a ghost.

"'All off for Marshall!' yelled the porter, and they hustled out. They congregated on the platform, and the old man who had dropped the card whispered hoarsely:

"'Brethren, we've been a-talkin' t' that awful atheist, Bob Ingersoll.'

"'Lord have mercy on us!' ejaculated a pious brother, as his chin dropped down behind his collar.

"The younger members of the party appeared to rather enjoy the confusion of their elders, and as the train pulled out I heard one of them say:

"'Well, men and brethren they do say that the devil is not as black as he is painted.'"

When the war broke out, Ingersoll volunteered. His political prominence gained for him the colonelcy of a regiment, but his record in the war was not a particulary brilliant one While guarding a crossroad in Tennessee with a small detachment he was captured by Confederates, his own captor being a very young boy. The Confed rate General before whom he was taken, asked him who was in command. Ingersoll said he did not know.

"You're a green officer not to know who is in command of your forces," said the rebel.

"I was in command an hour ago," was the reply. "Blamed if I know who is now."

The Union forces got after the colonel's captor's, and they were so hard pressed that they turned him loose. After getting back to his friends he decided that he had had enough of war and returned home.

On one occasion an Omaha man was on his way to Minneapolis, and the only occupants of the Pullman were himself and a large baldheaded man. The Omaha representative was immersed in thought, but not so much so as not to see the baldheaded one turn around and glance at him every now and then. This continued for half an hour, and then the stranger addressed him:

"Stranger, you seem in a deep study."

The man from Omaha signified that the other was not a thousand miles from the truth.

"Come up here by me, and let us have a talk," was the next remark.

"I'm not caring much," replied the Omaha man, "whether my legs carry me to you or whether your legs carry you to me."

"I'll meet you half way," the first speaker rejoined, and the two sat down together in the middle of the coach. After a silence such as only great men can indulge in, the Omaha man asked:

"Is there a hell?"

"I don't know," was the reply. Then, after another silence, the stranger asked:

"Is there a God?"

The Omaha man answered, "I don't know."

Then they sat in silence for another half mile until the Omaha man broke it by saying:

"Stranger, it doesn't seem as if we were going to get any good out of this acquaintance. I haven't learned anything from you, and you haven't learned anything from me."

"Take this pass to a lecture which will be delived in Minneapolis tomorrow night. You may learn something there," and, drawing out a notebook, the baldheaded man scribbled a few lines and signed his name. The signature was "Rob't. Ingersoll." "I went to hear him," the invited man adds, in telling the story, "and the lecture set me to reading the Bible, and I learned to believe in a God."

Ingersoll has been greatly referred to as a scoffer.

As a thinker he was too serious to treat anything lightly, and the frivolous handling of anything sacred offended him deeply.

No better example of this trait in this most peculiar man can be given than a little happening at a banquet to which he had been invited. It was during the discussion of the subject, "Is Marriage a Failure?" and this was the main subject to be talked about. Several men made speeches in which they treated the matter flippantly and tried to be witty at the expense of womankind. Ingersoll listened with growing impatience, and finally his turn to speak came. He was terribly in earnest, and what he said caused more than one man to weep. He struck a tender chord in many bosoms when he said, "The man who says that marriage is a failure has never stood with his wife and mother at the side of a child's grave."

Is It Right for an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this remedy in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be requred. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

"I like to hear a servant girl sing at her work. It shows a good disposition. "Not always. I think ours sings because she has a grudge against us."

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has lame back or weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles. We mean he can cure himself right away by using Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulant to liver and kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c a bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

ARE THEY GOING OUT?

Read Their Locals Following and Judge for Yourself.

The stock of clothing and gents' furnishings in Greensboro today is greater than the entire sales will aggregate in eighteen months. The Fishblate-Katz Co. wants to unload and get away.

Everything marked in plain figures at Fishblate-Katz Co's and they will make your hair curl to look at them.

How about those Harrington hats at Fishblate-Katz Co's?

Clothing cut less than 40 per cent. A great many things cut in the middle and some cut 60 per cent at the Fishblate-Katz Co's.

Are they going really out of business?

You mean the Fishblate-Katz Co.?

Yes They are going out if they can get out. If the public appreciate this sale they go out. Maybe they can unload on somebody who thinks the clothing business in Greensboro a good thing.

We recognize no competition during the progress of this sale. When you examine for yourself you will think likewise. Fishblate-Katz Co.

A NEGRO LYNCHED.

Had Entered a House and Demamded Food and Money.

Jasper, Fla., August 9—Last night an unknown negro entered the house of Mrs. Bush, a white woman, and demanded food and money. The woman told him she had neither at hand. He advanced upon and caught hold of her. She screamed for help. Her husband, who was nearby, ran to her rescue and caught and tied the negro. A posse started to jail with him. A few miles out a mob overtook them, took the negro away and shot him.

"I can truthfully say, Dr. Pierce's medicines did me more good than all I had ever taken before."

These are the words of Mr. O. S. Copenhaver, of Mount Union, Huntingden Co., Pa. He says further:

"About twelve years ago I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of the stomach which was so violent I could not walk straight. I consulted a physician and he told me I had a form of dyspepsia, and treated me six months with but little benefit. I then tried another physician and he told me my liver was out of order and that I had indigestion, but he didn't cure me. I then tried another one who said I had chronic indigestion, ulceration of the lining of the stomach, torpid liver and kidney affection. He treated me for more than a year. I then took several widely advertised patent medicines, but received no more than temporary relief while using. I then tried Doctor Pierce's medicines, using his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and in two months' time I was feeling better than I had for years before."

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the most effective blood purifier and germicide that modern medical science has produced. It at once neutralizes the poisonous, fermented matter in the stomach, liver and bowels, and as soon as this is removed by the action of the "Pellets" it soothes the inflammed membranes of these organs, putting them into healthy condition to absorb the nutritive elements of the food. It aids and stimulates the action of the digestive fluids of the body and is absorbed into the blood along with the food. It enriches the blood, filling it with vitalizing, strength-giving properties. It produces sound, healthy flesh—muscle you can work with. It is a safe medicine. It contains no whisky, alcohol, sugar or syrup. It does not create a craving for liquor.

ARTISTIC COUNTERFEITER.

Successful Operator Run Down After a Long Search.

Washington, August 9—Chief Wilkie, of the street service, has received a telegram stating that J. C. Pollock, alias McKibbon, had been arrested at Pecos, Texas, for making and circulating counterfeit United States notes. There was also captured with Pollock a negative for a Webster head $10-note, a Jackson head $5, a Garfield head $5, a $20 note on the Hanover National Bank of New York, and a Thomas head of $5; also a quantity of bond paper cut to the proper note size, as well as large quantities of inks and other material. It is stated that Pollock is one of the most expert photographic counterfeiters in the country, and has already served a sentence in the penitentiary upon this charge Subsequently he was again arrested for counterfeiting, but jumped his bail, since which time he has been running a biograph exhibition along the Mexican borders. It is stated that while in the penitentiary he was assigned to work in the prison photograph galleries, and succeded in making a number of counterfeits of good workmanship, which he managed to dispose of to people on the outside. He is said to be a very dangerous workman, and his arrest, after a search of several months, is regarded as an important event in the history of the service.

The undertaker's motto—"While there's death there's hope."

Mr. A. Saunders, writing from Cocoanut Grove, Fla., says there has been quite an epidemic of diarrhoea there. He had a severe attack and was cured by four doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says he also recommended it to others and they say it is the best medicine they ever used. For sale by C. E. Holton.

Seeking Rest, Or Health Or Pleasure?

Then Read This:

Mt. Vernon Springs Hotel is now open for the reception of guests. The waters from the Mt. Vernon Springs are equalled by few and surpassed by none in the state for medicinal and curative properties. Some of its cures are almost miraculous. Its taste is pleasant, cool, palatable and refreshing, and you enjoy it from the first. The springs are surrounded by great natural beauty. Around the premises is a dense oak grove and the air is pure and invigorating.

This most desirable of health and pleasure resorts is located just one mile west of Ore Hill in Chatham county. For further information address the owner and proprietor,

Now don't forget this. You will want to look neat and clean, so profit by the above. Phone 162 will get us.

The faithful members of Westminster Presbyterian church are having some noticeable improvements made on the interior of their edifice. The ceiling is being replaced by plastering and this, with other minor changes to be made, will add materially to the appearance of the church.

Mr. S. J. Kaufmann, the popular haberdasher and dealer in men's shoes, leaves tonight for a two or three weeks trip to the northern markets to look for the latest and prettiest patterns and all the novelties in his line. While away his store here will be under the charge of his brother, Mr. Alex Kaufmann, who arrived this morning from Alexandria, Va.

We are a little late in mentioning the fact, but you remember the other day we told about a fishing party catching some big fish down in Deep River. We testified then to the quantity, now we are prepared, through the kindness of Mrs. John Lewis and Mrs. S. E. Hudson, to testify to the excellent quality. Yesterday morning we had big fish for breakfast.

The jury appointed by the judge at the last term of the superior court to assess the damages due by the Southern Railway Company to the McAdoo heirs, caused by the encroachments of the railway company upon the McAdoo property near the A. and Y. depot, heard evidence in the case in the court house today. A number of citizens of the city were witnesses in the case.

INTERESTING LECTURE.

Wesley Smith's Ideas On Main Important Points.

'Cordin' to the lunification of the honorificibilitudinity, which I have reference to say lies along the disproportionableness of the main proantitranssubstantionalism, if I was to say I was an anthropophaginiarian there would arise an incomprehensibility close to transsubstantiationableness.

Good Egretta Dead.

Egretta, the fine mare owned by R. M. Rees, was taken sick early this morning and died at 12:30 o'clock today. She died at Vanstory's stables, where she was kept. Dr. Stewart treated her during the short illness as best he knew how, but to no avail. She was attacked, he thinks, with indigestion.

Mr. Rees regards Egretta's death as a great loss to him, not only financially but otherwise. She was perfectly shaped and of a beautiful brown color and as kind and gentle as a kitten. She came of the best Kentucky racing stock, and though never trained for speed, could "burn the wind" when her master desired. Mr. Rees purchased her when she was seven years old and had owned her five years. All who were so fortunate as to know her mourn with him her loss.

Miss Carrie Goodman Weds.

Greensboro people will be interested to learn of the marriage of Miss Carrie Lee Goodman, formerly of this city to Amos Hartman, a promising young man of Atlanta, which was solemnized in Statesville, on Tuesday last. The ceremony was performed in the parlor of Hotel Iredell, at 5:30 o'clock, p. m., Rev. Dr. W. A. Wood, officiating.

Miss Goodman is the daughter of R. L. Goodman, whose home is here, but whose duties as organizer for the Improved Order Heptasophs, keep him on the road. She is a beautiful young lady of many accomplishments and her many friends and admirers here join the Telegram in extending best wishes.
